College of the Canyons presents a showcase of original writing by students, faculty, and staff. This college-wide celebration of fine prose and poetry, sponsored by the English Department, will be held on Thursday, May 22, 2014, at 5:00 p.m. in MENH-343.

The selection committee, made up of one student writer and three faculty members, invites interested students, faculty, and staff members to submit prose, poetry, or fiction to the English desk in the Learning Center.

Reading one’s work publicly offers a challenge, but it is a challenge with many rewards. We look forward to reading your work.

The deadline for submissions is Thursday, April 24, 2014, at noon.

For more information call (661) 362-3079 or 362-3422

The Santa Clarita Community College District does not discriminate on the basis of ethnic group identity, religion, sex, age, color, national origin, marital status, mental disability or physical disability, including persons with AIDS/ARC/HIV in any of its policies, procedures, or practices. This nondiscrimination statement covers admission and access to, and treatment and employment in, the District’s programs, services and activities.

This information is subject to change as deemed appropriate by the Santa Clarita Community College District.

Please detach this section at the dotted line

Call for submission
Note: Attach completed registration form for each person submitting.

Name ____________________________________________
Address ____________________________________________
Email Address ______________________________________
Daytime Telephone ________________________________
City/State/Zip ______________________________________
Title of Piece(s) __________________________________

GUIDELINES
• Work must be typed. Omit names on submitted pages, please.
• Up to four poems may be submitted.
• Short stories or essays are limited to seven pages, double-spaced.
• Submit 4 copies of each entry.
• Do not submit originals, since work will not be returned.
• Works chosen must be read by the author.
• Decisions will be emailed by Tuesday, May 13, 2014.