

PROGRAM OF STUDY

Spanish Associate in Arts

The Department of Foreign Languages offers courses in French, German and Spanish. Foreign-language studies provide the student with a foundation in written communication skills of the language. From a vocational standpoint, the program provides skills in useful translation and interpretation, business, commerce and foreign-language based research. Foreign-language studies include numerous opportunities for students to enhance language skills and intercultural awareness through activities such as conversational groups, cultural excursions, poetry reading, and foreign film festivals. The major requirements for an associate degree may be met by completing 18 course units from the foreign-language curriculum. An intensive Spanish Institute is offered through the Foreign Language Program. The institute offers a total immersion program in language instruction and cultural workshops, and it hosts numerous faculty lectures and performance related to Spain and Latin America. Students may earn up to 3.5 units of degree-applicable credit during the five day program. The program is ideal for teachers who need a second language requirement, nurses and emergency services personnel, students who want an in-depth language and cultural experience, and community members interested in Spanish language and culture.
