IMPLEMENTING CULTURALLY RESPONSIVE PEDAGOGY WITH THE DIMENSIONS OF MULTICULTURAL EDUCATION

Thursday, February 5, 2015
11:30am - 1:30pm - Presentation & Luncheon
UCEN 258
FLEX credit – 2 hours

Presenter: Dr. James Banks, Kerry and Linda Killinger Endowed Chair in Diversity Studies & Director, Center for Multicultural Education, University of Washington, Seattle

Nation-states around the world have initiated reforms to increase educational equality because of the thousands of immigrants that enter many nations each year, the increasing recognition of the language and cultural traditions of diverse groups, and disparities in their educational achievement.

In this workshop, Professor Banks will describe how his five dimensions of multicultural education can be used to implement culturally responsive pedagogy. This model can guide educational reform that will help students from diverse racial, ethnic, cultural, and language groups to attain high academic achievement and to acquire the knowledge, attitudes, and skills needed to become effective and thoughtful citizens.

For a list of Dr. Banks’ published works and video interviews, please visit http://faculty.washington.edu/jbanks/.

To register, please use the Lumens online registration system at www.canyons.communityext.net.

Questions? Please contact Leslie Carr in the Professional Development Office at campus extens:on 3100 or via email at leslie.carr@canyons.edu.

This presentation is grant funded.

"An individual has not started living until he can rise above the narrow confines of his individualistic concerns to the broader concerns of all humanity."

Martin Luther King, Jr.