

CERTIFIED FOOD HANDLER CLASS ADVISORY

Students/candidates are expected to familiarize themselves with the Food Safety concepts prior to attending class if they wish to take the Exam. The exam for this course is offered through an ANSI (American National Standards Institute) listed, accredited food protection manager certification organization. The exam and corresponding certificate is accepted by nearly all regulatory agencies and organizational requirements.*

Numerous sources of Food Handler information are available. Students may take any route they wish to prepare themselves for this course and exam. Several effective resources are listed below. It is recommended that students (exam candidates) attain the appropriate content/book through any academic, retail or online source of their choice, and acquaint themselves with the basic concepts of Sanitation and Food Safety.

Additionally, a dedicated Study Guide has been developed specifically for this class by the instructor, Gev Kazanchyan. This Manual is made available for immediate Printing Out/Download via request through the instructor. The manual is in electronic format (so it is not bound, nor mailed out) and is purchased for $15, which may be paid upon arrival on the date of class. IF you choose to use this as your source or preparation, please email the instructor for access to a link to download this Study Manual: gev.kaz@gmail.com
