COLLEGE OF THE CANYONS
ART 111 - Art History Survey 2: Renaissance to Modernism
Fall 2017

Hello and welcome to the orientation statement for Art 111, the 2nd of two art history surveys offered at College of the Canyons! Art 111 is an introductory level course during which we will look at western art from the Renaissance (circa 1400) to the beginning of the 20th century. You should anticipate spending at least 5-7 hours per week on class work.

College of the Canyons is now using the Canvas online classroom. You may be familiar with using a system called Blackboard in the past – I hope you enjoy using the enhanced features of Canvas from now on. More details on Canvas are contained later.

We will utilize various learning formats in this class, but central among them will be the high-resolution images that you will view online. Therefore, in order to be successful in this class you should be able to navigate the internet successfully as well as being able to download images and files to your computer.

In addition, your ability to recall and recognize different artworks and identify a country or cultural movement that they came from is a handy skill to develop.

Finally, your ability to write clearly and to articulate your own, unique reactions to the varied offerings that art presents to us is essential for success. (Please read on for further orientation information!)

CLASS FORMAT

- Class begins on Monday, August 21, 2017
- You will not be able to access the class until that date
- This class is offered 100% online – that is, we do not meet face-to-face at any point
- Log in here: http://coc.instructure.com
- Your default log in is your ‘my canyons’ user name; your default password is your 9 digit student ID #
- Learning modules are due weekly – therefore, regular, intensive work habits and postings to the class website discussion boards are necessary
- Class content will consist of lectures, image presentations, live conferencing sessions, message board discussions, interactive forums and assignments/quizzes
- Any class comes to life based on the quality of interaction between students. A successful online class requires that you bring enthusiasm and interest to the classroom – and be willing to display an interest in the learning of others at the same time

TECHNICAL REQUIREMENTS

- You need to be comfortable navigating the internet
- You need to be proficient using word processing programs such as Microsoft Word
- You need to be able to download and save files from the internet and attach files to email (in order to meet these requirements you need computer access with the following hardware/software):
    - At least a 56K modem (however, our course content depends heavily on viewing high-resolution image files that can load slowly on slower internet connections. Faster connections will work better, such as DSL or cable modem)
    - Current internet navigation software, such as Chrome, Safari, Firefox, etc.
• Current word processing software, such as Microsoft Word
• Access to email
• If access to any of the above is not possible, then you could visit computer labs on the COC campus located in the Library and the TLC Lab, or a library in your local area

TEXTBOOK
Gardner's Art through the Ages: A Global History (or 'The Western Perspective'), Volume II, 14th or 15th Edition. Author: Fred Kleiner

The book’s web site is http://cengagebrain.com
- Here you will also find it is available as a paper book AND as a digital e-book (which is substantially cheaper!)
- You can even use very old editions from #10 onwards if you wish - however, chapter #’s and course content are ordered differently in these earlier versions.
- You may reserve your textbook online for next day pick up from the COC bookstore at www.cocbkstore.com

BEING A SUCCESSFUL ART HISTORY STUDENT
The following tips may help you succeed in this class:
- Be prepared to learn about many things in this class, not only art, but also general histories of various regions and time periods, their people and their customs.
- Anticipate that much of the learning in this class is image-oriented – that is, while we still use teaching formats that you may be familiar with from other classes, much of our course content is purely visual in nature. Be prepared to engage in the unique challenges this may represent.
- An ability to write clear, well-structured English sentences is a must. Art is a difficult subject to write about – therefore, confident writing skills will ensure greater chances of success in this class.
- Developing a visual sensibility will be useful – this means that you should become accustomed to identifying information about artworks based purely on how they look. Information of this type may include – but is not limited to – the time and place a particular artwork was made, who made it, what materials and techniques they used, and what the work of art means.

USEFUL LINKS
- CANVAS log in: http://coc.instructure.com (default username is your ‘my canyons’ user id/default password is your 9 digit student ID)
- Online Learning home page: http://www.canyons.edu/offices/distancelearning/Pages/default.aspx

As a final note on this subject, I hope that this class inspires in you an interest in the subject of art in general. If you develop an interest in looking at art on a regular basis by visiting galleries and museums in your hometown, I am sure you will find it an enriching, rewarding and endlessly educational experience. So with that lets get started!

Michael McCaffrey
College of the Canyons
michael.mccaffrey@canyons.edu/661-362-3651