The Civic Engagement Initiative at College of the Canyons bridges theory with practice to foster a “civic-minded” campus culture, which advances democratic thought and action for the public good. By engaging in collaboration, critical thinking, and integrative learning, students, faculty, staff and community partners serve as civic leaders working in tandem to co-educate, as well as to co-create responses to real-world, authentic problems. In addition, by encouraging greater awareness of today’s local, national and global issues, an informed and empowered citizenry can confront situations of inequity, whether facing person, place or living being by emphasizing the High Impact Practice of Project-Based Learning through curricular and co-curricular opportunities.
