	When the pandemic began in March 2020, we had many concerns about how we could best serve our students moving forward. We also have an incredible relationship with the local community thanks to our Friday Night at the Screening Room series. This is a bi-weekly screening series that gives both our campus community and the local community the ability to see great films that they did not have the chance to see in local theatres when they were released. We tend to focus on independent cinema, documentary, and foreign films. We did not want to let this series disappear due to the pandemic, so in the fall of 2020, we moved it online. We picked films that people could stream at home and then would meet on Zoom to discuss them. It was a successful, temporary measure as we always intended to return to in person screenings when it was safe. Luckily, that happened for the fall 2021 semester, where we ran a number of successful, well attended screenings. The in person screening	5

	Despite COVID, the department continued producing productions. Fall 2020 included two virtual productions.
	"Woyzeck" (an unfinished work by German playwright, George Büchner) was presented as a prerecorded production. As we do not know the order Büchner intended the scenes to be in, director David Stears presented the individual scenes as a " choose your own path " through a website so that audience members could explore the possibilities. The second Fall production was "Virtuality: The 2020 Games, & quot; written by the cast under the direction of Susan Hinshaw. This production was an advanced version of "Zoom" theatre that went out live to the audiences. A recording of the first night of " Virtuality " was presented at the Kennedy Center American College Theatre Festival Region 8 as one of the best devised theatre productions of 2020. In the Spring, the department produced the well-received

	The department experimented with an early audition process for the Spring 2022 production of "Into the Woods." Early results look like we attracted more students to submit for the production than we have seen in recent semesters. This may be due to a proposed in-person production or the new audition procedure.
